Dear SYT Students and Parents of The Taming of the Shrew:

You all did a fantastic job at both the auditions and callbacks Sunday and Monday. Your work was absolutely great, and your response to direction was excellent.

Here’s the challenge: we simply do not have enough people to do a minimal version of The Taming of the Shrew. Even with recruiting efforts on our part, we simply are not able to cast the show. So, after very reluctantly reaching that conclusion and brainstorming, Jeanne and I have decided to go with a different show for you all that is specifically chosen for your talents and the number of people in the ensemble: David Ives’ ALL IN THE TIMING.

ALL IN THE TIMING is a collection of one act absurdist plays that culminates with the story of how Leon Trotsky spent a whole day with a mountain climber’s axe in his head before he died. The individual shows, which vary in roles, are challenging, mind-blowing, hilarious, and smart. You’ll spend the first couple of days of rehearsal reading and working on them all and then settling into who is going to do what. The show will be presented to the public on our scheduled Thursday, Friday, and Saturday performances in the Main Theater.

In addition, because there seemed to be an interest in discussion and devising work during callbacks, you will have a chance to work on creating your own David Ives inspired one act plays modeled on his writing. Your creations will be presented at the Saturday matinee time slot for family, friends, and anyone you want to invite. This performance will be offered free to the public and another great way to showcase your abilities for future SYT and school directors.

But your heart was set on Shakespeare? Us, too, so, if you choose, we can also present some scenes and soliloquies we will work on for that matinee time slot. You can still do the Kate and Petruchio scene we began to work on, or tackle one of the great soliloquies. Or do both Shakespeare and Ives-inspired. Your choice.

I hope you are as excited as we are about this! Jeanne can’t wait to see you all again and get started. Please feel free to contact Jeanne or I if you have any questions. If not, see you on the 28th!

Thank you,

Elizabeth Sullivan (785.843.2787)
Jeanne Averill (785.393.9204)
